

Between the Lines

The Inside Story

THE SCRIBBLER - PHIL DiDOMENICO'S WORDS TO LIVE BY.

Ninth Edition January 2015

Truth or Consequences...

There was once a farmer whose son had a temper problem, he told his son that every time you lose your temper you lose your time you go behind the barn and hammer a nail into the fence. He did that for a few months and the fence was full of nails. His father said now each time you feel like you are going to lose it try to control yourself and if you are successful go back to the fence and take out a nail. After months of controlling himself and being very proud he took his father to the fence to show him that no more nails were left. His father said good job son, but notice that you left all those holes in the fence that will never go away.

Don't for one moment think that you can get away with mistreating people, low intensity rudeness, disrespect, anger, it all compounds, and it leaves behind consequences that will never go away.

"Sticks and stones will break our bones but words will break our hearts."

Ninth Commandment:

Treat people like they make a difference and they will.